QUIZ TRIO ON TRAIN ROBBERY

Three Men Held in Columbus Suspected in Big Four Holdup.

ALL SILENT ON SUBJECT

Bellefontaine Police on Way To Take Part in Inquiry.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13 — Bellefontaine police officials were en route here today to question three robbery suspects in connection with the holdup of a Big Four Pullman train between Carey and Bellefontaine several weeks ago.

The men under arrest are Eugene Johnson, 21, Charles Bright, 42, and Charles Dyer, 38, all of Columbus. They were caught here last night and Johnson was shot and seriously wounded when he resisted arrest. Police said more than a dozen Columbus robberies during the last three months were cleared up with their capture.

When Police Inspector John F. O'Connor attempted to question the men about the train robbery, none would talk. Bellefontaine officials were notified and they announced they would come here today.

The bandit gang that routed Pullman passengers from their berths and shot one of them to quiet him was composed of six men. The loot which was more than $2,500, consisted chiefly of jewelry.

Opposition to certain bills in the state legislature and to the repeal of the observance of Temperance day in the public schools was recorded in the business session at the annual W. C. T. Foster's subject was "The Need of the Hour." Reports of the various departments occupied a part of the afternoon session and Mrs. Mayme T. Ensign of the state W. C. T. U. gave a lecture on "Scientific Temperance Instructions." Mrs. Ensign also opened the session last night with a stereopticon lecture.

WITHDRAWAL PLANS MADE KNOWN TODAY

All of U. S. Forces Due To Be Out of Southern Country After 1932 Election.

PLAN TO START SOON

Proposal for Removal of Forces Accepted by Nicaraguan President.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The United States is to withdraw marines from Nicaragua

Acceptance by President Moncada of Nicaragua of a definite plan to substantially reduce marine forces in Nicaragua by June and pave the way for complete withdrawal after the elections of 1932 was announced today by Secretary Stimson.

The marines to be withdrawn by June, plans for which will become immediately effective, are those on combat duty against the insurgent forces and total about 800

The remaining marine force will be stationed in Managua, the capital, and will devote their attention solely to training purposes and as an aviation unit required in some sections due to lack of roads.

Total Formerly 5,000

By June the marine force of 500 will be in contrast to one over 5,000 in Nicaragua on Jan. 1, 1929

The plan was devised by Stimson while in conference with American Minister Hanna, Major General Frank R. McCoy, army officer, who supervised the 1928 elections, and Brigadier General Douglas McDougal, former commander of the Nicaraguan national guard and a United States marine officer.

The secretary summoned those three to Washington for the conference.

The plan covers provision to pay for the increase by Nicaragua of the guard and looks toward the eventual suppression of the insurgent forces in the public

Will War on Bandits

The withdrawal plan is linked with a plan to immediately increase by 500 the Nicaraguan national guard which will wage a vigorous campaign against bandit forces most prominent among whose leaders was the elusive "General" Sandino.

The government has spent $5,517,000 in keeping the marines in Nicaragua from July 1, 1919 to Dec. 31, 1930.

The operations of insurgents have not been entirely quelled, however, only last December 31, eight marines were killed in a clash with dissident forces in the mountainous region.

SECRECY SURROUNDS NEW FIGHTING PLANE

Navy Gets Craft Capable of 300 Miles an Hour; Climbs 2 Miles.

By The Associated Press.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 13—A naval fighting plane which observers claims attains a speed of 300 miles an hour and an altitude of 29,000 feet was secreted under armed guard today.

Completed yesterday by the Curtiss-Wright corporation, the ship was tested by William Crosswell, company pilot, at Mitchell field Crosswell took it off the ground in less than 400 feet, dived it at 350 miles an hour and pointed it toward the sun until it was two miles in the air.

Under cover of night, the plane was flown here and stored preparatory to a trip to the naval air station at Anacostia field, Washington for final tests. Army and navy officers and Curtiss officials who witnessed the experiments referred all queries to Washington. Alfred J. William, former navy pilot and speed king, was one of the few permitted to examine it.

The ship is the smallest single-seated combat biplane ever seen here. It is powered by a new type of Wright air-cooled motor and is equipped with two machine gun mounts.

The secrecy surrounding the tests led to the belief the ship might become the United States entry in the approaching Schneider cup competition.

MARCONI 3,500 MILES AWAY IN AIR INTERVIEW

Hints of Important Wireless Development in Talk to American Reporter.

FROM VATICAN CITY

May Be Very Close to Practical Television, Inventor Says.

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

Copyright by The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 13—An important radio development is in the offing, its nature so far undisclosed, Guglielmo Marconi has indicated in the first radio interview ever conducted between New York and Vatican City.

Responding to questions put to him over a 3,500-mile invisible short wave radio circuit, Senator Marconi vaguely hinted that another forward step was to be taken in wireless, to which he has contributed so much since its earliest days

The question that elicited this information was: "What, in your opinion, is to be the next important development in radio?"

To which he replied: "Well, I wish I could answer that important question Perhaps if I could, I am not sure that I would broadcast it."

He added that on a proposed visit to America next fall, "I may be able to say something more."

Discusses Power Prospects

A wide range of radio subjects was touched upon by the senator, including the statement that power transmission by radio was possible "but in an extremely inefficient manner."

Television development, he believes, depends largely upon further perfection of telephonic and rapid picture transmission. Then he said, "We may be very close to practical television."

The interview, with the questioner seated before a microphone in a broadcast laboratory, was made possible through the cooperation

SCORES OF FIREMEN OVERCOME BY FUMES

48 in Rochester, N. Y., Hospitals from Gas Poisoning During Stubborn Blaze.

By The Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 13—With 48 firemen including three batallion chiefs in hospitals, and many more recovering from smoke and gas poisoning after receiving first aid, a five-hour fire was extinguished this morning, putting an end to a situation which overcame entire companies.

Smoke and carbon monoxide gas formed when water came in contact with burning oil in the basement of the building, dropped firemen by the scores. Even those with gas masks were overcome almost as rapidly as those without. More than 100 firemen were affected.

Emergency first aid stations were set up near the fire by nurses and internes and ambulances kept up steady runs to and from hospitals.

Spectators aided surviving firemen to rescue those who were overcome.

Three firemen returned to duty after being treated, only to be felled again by the fumes.

Firemen were handicapped in fighting the flames because of the work of rescuing fallen companions.

Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Eleven to Leave "City of Living Dead" Saturday

By United Press

CARVILLE, La., Feb. 13—Eleven men and women, committed to the city of the living dead here, will go out into the world Saturday as free men and women

They were patients at the United States leprosarium. Dr. O. E. Denny, superintendent of the institution, today announced they were free of the plague and could mingle with society.

The patients to be released had been confined from three to five years. Their affliction, Dr Denny told the United Press, was mild, and easily arrested. Three patients are Mexicans, five Filipinos and the remainder American born. Only two are women.

• • •

DR. DENNY pointed out that patients at the Carville leprosarium are increasing gradually He did not, however, attribute this to an increase in leprosy, but rather to better detection by physicians and increased desire by victims to have the disease arrested

There are now, including the 11 to be released Saturday, 330 patients, compared to the 310 average during the last year.

The Carville leprosarium, composed of scores of one story cottages nestling behind the winding Mississippi levees 70 miles north of New Orleans, is the only hospital of its kind supported by the United States government It was established 10 years ago

HOOVER SEES LINCOLN IDEALS FACING TEST

Tells People Over Radio That "Lincoln's Way" Will Solve Modern Problems.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — Through a microphone placed upon the table at which Abraham Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, President Hoover told the American people last night that the present furnishes a critical test for the principles and ideals of his great predecessor.

Today, as in Lincoln's day, he told his radio audience, states' rights, the relationship of federal, state and local government responsibilities, form the dominant problem.

"Victory over this depression and over our other difficulties," he said, "will be won by resolution of our people to fight their own battles in their own communities, by stimulating their ingenuity to solve their own problems, by taking new courage to be masters of their own destiny in the struggle of life. This is not the easy way, but it is the American way. And it was Lincoln's way."

For his far-scattered listeners the President in terse words pictured the scene in the Lincoln study from which he delivered the anniversary address. The President's voice expressed his deep feeling.

Not Wasted

(Will Rogers Special)

TEXARKANA, Tex., Feb. 13 —My friend, Mr. Parks, editor of Fort Smith, says, "Somebody must have been kidding Will about that circus stranded here."

Nobody was kidding Will. I talked with the women on the committee that had to dig up the feed. I bet the editor never even knew they were there.

Besides, if people do send checks and things to eat for 'em, and they don't need it, why send 'em back? Give 'em to the Red Cross there.

There is nothing that a lion eats that a human don't.

And we got people hungry enough that I would even hate to trust 'em with an elephant's hay.

Well, I have to fly to California today. I got a wire from the Fox people that I went for and they told me I better rush home to work on a picture or I would join the unemployed.

Yours,

Will Rogers

SENATE GOES INTO WIND-UP RELIEF FIGHT

Oklahoma Senator Prepares for "Endurance" Speech To Hold Off Vote.

LONG SESSION AHEAD

G. O. P. Leader Opposes Any Recess Before Action on Drouth Fund.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 13 - Weary from the long drawn debate on the compromise relief agreement, the senate faced today the determination of Senator Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, to talk with "human endurance the limit"

Republican Leader Watson decided to request the senators remain in session until a vote is reached on the interior department bill conference report Attached to this bill is the $20,000,000 drouth loan fund, which the administration yesterday assured the senate will make possible food and medicine purchases by farmers

Leaders Confident

But neither Thomas' determination to go the limit in speaking nor the continuing opposition to the loan compromise of several Democrats and Republican independents caused serious apprehension to leaders They were confident still that the proposition would be approved

After Thomas' speech some remarks from Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, were expected. Yesterday he said the administration statement convinced him food purchases would be possible under the legislation, but he withheld approval of the plan, nevertheless.

It was in response to Borah's resolution that Secretary Hyde yesterday telegraphed from Louisville reaffirmation that the purpose of the loan was not for food purchases, but added it was his understanding that after the loans were made for crop planting and farm rehabilitation there could be no prohibition placed on the borrowers to keep them from purchasing supplies for their own sustenance

NEW PROPOSAL MADE

Insurgents Would Place $25,000,000 Fund in Hoover's Hands

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb 13—An appropriation of $25,000,000 to President Hoover, to be used "in his discretion" for the relief of human suffering among persons too poor to secure federal loans, was proposed today by the insurgent group as a supplement to the administration's $20,000,000 drouth relief bill

The supplemental appropriation would be directed to the President to be used if continued unemployment or drouth create a national emergency, next summer. The money would be made available to purchase food, clothing and medicine, or provide any other relief desired by the President.

ROBBING OHIO BANKS IS HAZARDOUS WORK

Association Report Reveals Nine of Ten State Robbers Captured.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—Nine out of every 10 bank robbers in Ohio are captured, thus making bank robbery in this state not only unprofitable to the robbers but an exceedingly hazardous crime, according to a report submitted to the Ohio State Bankers' Association at its mid-winter meeting here today.

The report states that since last May, 90 bank robbers have been arrested and convicted and two robbers have been killed while committing the crime. Many have been wounded or otherwise injured.

Seven men convicted of bank robbery have been sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary since last May, according to the report. The report also warned merchants and business men to be cautious in the cashing of checks for strangers. It was pointed out that the issuance of worthless checks has increased considerable in the past few months.

SKIRMISH LOST BY DAUGHERTY

EVIDENCE ADMITTED

Judge Permits Introduction of All Testimony on Fraud Issue.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Feb. 13 —The state scored an important victory today in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty when Judge Charles S. Bell ruled that he would permit the prosecution to introduce any and all evidence tending to show that the former president of the defunct Ohio State bank intended to defraud the institution

Judge Bell upheld the state after C. J. Mattern, of defense counsel, engaged in a heated verbal tilt with Assistant Prosecutor Louis J. Schneider

The clash came when the state sought to introduce a deposition by Clyde Sharp, examiner for the state banking department. This deposition it was said was intended to show the condition of the books of the Midland national the Fayette county and the Commercial bank at the time they were merged to form the Ohio State bank, the funds of which Daugherty is charged with having mishandled

Outlines State's Plans

Schneider said it was the intention of the state to show that the Ohio State bank was insolvent from the time it was organized This brought a sharp objection from Mattern, but the court upheld the right of the prosecution to introduce the evidence. This opened the way to the prosecution to show the condition of the bank from the time of the merger, and an opportunity to try to show that the defendant did not live up to the orders of the state banking department governing the merger.

Prior to the clash between the attorneys, Floyd Mitchell, former chief bookkeeper at the Ohio State bank, identified certain ledgers and papers. Asked if Daugherty had ever requested him to falsify the bank records, Mitchell's reply was halted when Judge Bell upheld a defense objection.

It was expected most of today's session would be occupied with the placing of documents in the records. Tomorrow, John Perrill, a Fayette county farmer, is to be recalled to elaborate on his testimony that he signed two checks at Daugherty's request but denied indorsing a note bearing his name. The note, the state claims, was part of Daugherty's alleged scheme for abstracting funds.

HYMIE MARTIN FACING FIRST DEGREE CHARGE

Pittsburgh Racketeer Named as Former Cleveland Councilman's Slayer.

EXTRADITION SOUGHT

Airplanes To Rush Warrant as Cleveland Grand Jury Prepares To Act.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 13 — A warrant charging "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin with first degree murder of former Councilman William E. Potter was issued here today.

Police said the warrant would be rushed to Pittsburgh by airplane, where Martin is under arrest, and that later today an indictment would be sought in Cleveland. Extradition papers to bring Martin from Pittsburgh to Cleveland will be requested of Governor George White

Martin, a racketeer and whisky runner, was identified as a mysterious visitor, the day of the killing, to the apartment building where Potter's body was found.

Identified in "Line-up"

The identification was made by Miss Queen Esther Morgan, a high school girl, and Mrs. Betty Gray, both occupants of the apartment house They viewed Martin in a "line-up" at headquarters of Pittsburgh police. Martin was arrested there yesterday

The first statement that Martin and Potter were seen together in Cleveland the day of the killing was furnished detectives today by Traffic Patrolman Andrew Resick. He identified Martin through a picture and said he saw him and Potter in conversation about 4 p. m. Feb. 3, the day the former councilman was killed

Martin denied connection with the killing and said he had never been in the apartment building. "I'm a bootlegger and not a murderer," he said.

The Pittsburgh man said he was in Cleveland, Feb 2, the day before the killing, but that he was not here on Feb. 3.

Recognized by Laub

In addition to the identification given by the two women, Martin was identified by Fred C Laub, custodian of the apartment, through a photograph, as the mysterious "M. J. Markus" who rented the suite where Potter was shot.

Police have not disclosed the motive for the killing, but it was revealed they found a slip of paper in the dead man's pockets which explained it

Cleveland detectives said they know then also the identity of a second man who they said was directly involved in the killing. They declined to reveal his name.

Knew Redlick

Questioning of Martin revealed he knew Julius Redlick, who says he is the husband of Betty Gray, and Pittsburgh detectives were to come here to question Redlick concerning the robbery of the Manchester Savings & Trust Co. in Pittsburgh of $50,000 last December. Redlick in 1926 was convicted of stealing $5,600 from a branch of the Cleveland Trust Co. and was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory.

A blond woman reported by a neighbor woman to have been in the death suite the night of Feb. 3, when Potter was killed, also was being sought in Pittsburgh and Steubenville, O. Martin and the woman, known as "Mary," were reported to have been in Steubenville two weeks ago.

Commerce Commission Starts Suit Against Railroad To Determine Validity.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — An order requiring the Norfolk & Western railroad to pay the government $15,849,944 out of its alleged excess earnings between 1928 and 1930 was issued today by the interstate commerce commission.

The order constituted the commission's first attempt to collect excess railroad earnings from a trunk line carrier of major size.

In the first serious attempt to test the law, the commission valuations of the St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad, a small line, was rejected by the supreme court, more than a year ago.

In dealing with the Norfolk & Western the commission found that the railroad, in 1922 had investments in transportation amounting to $[illegible] and that this figure gradually increased by improvements and additions to the system until in [illegible] it was [illegible]

Easy, Simple Methods Best for Skin, Beauty Expert Says

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

If you have saved the articles on back beauty, you will see that we have taken up posture, good skin texture and the treatment of blemishes, but so far, I have made no mention of the particular blemish that is probably the most common of them all. I refer to the sunburn and tan which are revealed by the evening gown of the hour. By this time it is possible that the discoloration has become somewhat faded, but it remains definite enough in appearance to be noticeable, and to detract from the ensemble.

We have several remedies to turn to, any of which will be effective with persistent use consistency and patience being necessary, because we cannot expect startling results overnight. Some of these remedies are mild and others are strong, and you will have to decide which will effect the best results by considering the state of your skin. When you are deciding remember that in using any beauty treatment, the easier and simpler the desired results can be obtained, the better it is for the skin. Harsh methods should be used only as a last resort.

The Strength of the Lotion

Among the milder lotions which may be used for bleaching purposes, is lemon juice, but even lemon juice may prove irritating to the very sensitive skin If this should be the case, dilute the lemon juice with a little water for the first two or three treatments, and then try the pure juice again, then, if there is no itching or burning, you can continue the use of the pure juice without fear of any harm to your skin.

To use lemon juice for bleaching first cleanse the back thoroughly with cold cream, then after applying two or three hot compresses, dash a little cold water over the skin Before drying apply the lemon juice solution. The best method of applying is to saturate a piece of cotton with the solution and pat it on the skin. This treatment may be repeated several times daily without repeating the cleansing process, and should show definite results after a week or ten days

Peroxide may be used in place of lemon juice with the same results If this treatment seems too severe you can try a mixture of equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide This is not a harsh lotion but is a little stronger than the lemon juice or peroxide alone This treatment is preceded, also, by a thorough cleasing of the skin

In the next article I'll tell you about another mild bleach which may prove more effective than the one discussed today

The verdict did not quite follow the stereotyped form. Did the jury wish to hint that the persons were not unknown?

Jimmie Haswell took special note of Vincent Blake as Captain Stirling greeted him, his sisters and Duckworth, while Audrey, Nancy and Mr. Morgan joined the little group. His likeness to his sisters was not notable, since he was dark and they were fair and several years younger. But the broken bridge to his large nose suggested to Jimmie that Roscoe had correctly identified him.

Constable Roscoe pushed through the crowd and told Blake that the superintendent wished to speak with him. He seemed surprised and Stirling explained, "He's inquisitive. We all have to go through it."

Jimmie and Morgan followed the nephew into a small side room where Richmond was waiting with an abrupt question. "Where were you on the night of Thursday last, when your aunt died?"

Taken aback, Blake looked uncomfortable, but answered, "In Bradford."

If Richmond was surprised by the nephew's immediate admission of presence in the neighborhood, he did not comment. "Where do you live?" he asked.

"In Wimbledon, just outside London."

"Why were you in Bradford that night?" asked the constable.

Blake looked at him. "I wanted to see my aunt," he said slowly.

"Did you see her?"

"No she did not know that I had come."

Richmond regarded him sternly "Do you mean to suggest that you came from London to Bradford specially to see your aunt and went away without doing so."

Vincent gave a weak sort of laugh. "It may sound odd, foolish perhaps, but it is true."

Morgan interposed that Vincent was not on good terms with his aunt and might explain why he had changed his mind. His tone was encouraging and Vincent appreciated it.

"We were not on bad terms," he said. "Recently a man I know gave me an option on some choice property between Wimbledon and Kingston. The price was reasonable and I decided to ask my aunt to finance me, take most of the profit, but give me a good start on my own account."

"What did she say?"

"I didn't see her. When I drove over from Bradford I found I'd left the plans behind. Then I figured that if I told her I'd come without the papers she'd call me a fool and refuse to help me."

Morgan agreed, but Richmond continued. "Did you see your sisters?"

"No, if I'd seen anyone, my aunt would have inquired why I'd come and I would have had to explain my mistake. When I got back to Bradford, I concluded I'd started wrong. Knowing my aunt, I reflected it would be better to write first and show her the proposition was sound and then see her."

"So you wrote from Bradford?"

"No, I never wrote at all."

"I see," said Richmond, sarcastically. "And this all happened on the night your aunt was killed!"

"You've got to understand that I was frightened at Aunt Annabelle," said Blake, fidgeting restlessly. "I thought that, if I wrote from Bradford, it might look as though—coming all that way—I took it for granted she would do what I wanted. And that might annoy her. So I decided to wait till I got back to town. I was just about to write when I saw the death notice in the Friday night's paper. This is only Monday."

He had not told his sisters of his visit, and Richmond said that perhaps he intended to keep it a secret. To this Vincent said, "I told you when you asked me."

"You were at Merrow Craig," Richmond said, "at the very moment your aunt was killed. Had the question been put to you, under oath, could you have sworn that you had done nothing directly or indirectly to cause your aunt's death?"

"Indeed I could," said Vincent Blake earnestly.

Then Jimmie inquired if Blake corresponded with his sisters and was told that letters were rare. When he asked Vincent if he had brought the plans along this time, the nephew answered brightly, "Yes, I have."

"Why?" demanded Richmond.

"Because I thought the girls might get something from Aunt Annabelle and they might help me. I did not expect anything myself."

There were a few more questions but no variations from his original story and he and Morgan withdrew. Richmond addressed Jimmie.

"Well, is he as simple as he seems?"

"Probably not. He's scared, realizes his awkward position, and tries to strike a note of manly frankness which he can't quite manage."

Richmond admitted his surprise that Vincent had not tried to dodge being near Merrow Craig, but Jimmie laughed. "If Roscoe spotted him, no doubt he spotted Roscoe. When you send Roscoe for him he is cute enough to know the right answer."

"Then you think he is concerned in it—with Marjorie?" Richmond was putting his own thoughts into words. "The will would have made a lot of difference to him. As things stand he is likely to benefit considerably."

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

"Dad" Spencer's Theory Leads to A Decision.

UNDER the veranda light—my father had switched it on when Dicky started his sprint for the supposed bomb which the bank robbers had hurled into the farmyard—the rest of us stared at the "Chief" the name lovingly given to my father by those who served under him in the secret service during the World War. What could he mean by his counsel to do nothing concerning the bank marauders until we had found out what was "really in that missile over yonder in the field."

The thing which we all had thought was a "pineapple" with a message of death for all of us, had proved in its mild explosion to be nothing stronger than a Fourth of July Roman Candle. We had waited in horrified suspense for a further explosion, but nothing had come and we had settled down to a feeling of security. My father himself had said that the "bomb" was either a "dud, a threat, or a bit of quillpish humor." And now he wished further investigation of it! I remembered suddenly that he was an old man. Had the events of the night, with the attendant special terrors for him because of me and of my own children, so upset him that his usually clear judgment was clouded?

Harry Underwood was the first to answer him.

No Idle Boast

"I get you, Chief," he said, and I wondered if he was sincere in his statement, or was only humoring my father. "And I'm the lad for you. But don't you think we'd better wait for daylight? Look! There's the first of it now."

We followed his eyes toward the east where indeed the blackness was beginning to lift and be displaced by gray.

"Of course. Daylight by all means," my father said, and Dicky added:

"That's all right. We'll wait, but I'm in on this."

"Listen, Little One! Mr. Underwood's voice held the badinage which the two old friends so often use in their conversation. "What are your qualifications for this line of work, anyway? Please remember that any kind of groundwork except parachuting from a bombing plane, which simply wasn't done, was out of your line. But if there's any sort of an explosive extant that I haven't seen au naturel, dressed, defunct, and dudded—I like that word, friends—you may serve it in my breakfast cereal this morning."

He was making no idle boast, I knew, for he had served magnificently in the ambulance service during the latter part of the war, atoning under an assumed name for the drink-crazed treachery which had almost cost Dicky's life before his old friend had come to his senses, realizing what he was doing, and averted complete disaster by the sacrifice of his own liberty with the prospect of a traitor's death. His escape, his magnificent work during the rest of the war under another name, his pardon by the government for his signal services, and his long years of atonement—these were all as familiar to us as the explosive-strewn battle fields of France were to him.

"That makes no difference," Dicky returned obstinately, but my father held up his hand.

"We have a good half hour for decision," he said. "It won't be broad daylight until then, and we must not wait longer than that because of possible passersby."

I rose abruptly.

"There'll be time for some coffee, anyway," I said, and Lillian came to my side and slipped her hand through my arm.

"I'll see that she doesn't work too hard, Chief," she said, forestalling the famous objection to any exertion on my part which we knew was on his lips.

"Hurray for the coffee," Mr. Underwood said, and we hurried into the kitchen forthwith, where we drank plenty of coffee, supplementing the hot drink with bacon, scrambled eggs and toast. When we returned to the veranda and summoned our men, there were still fifteen minutes left of the half hour my father had named. "Incredible!" my father said gallantly as he came into the kitchen, where we had spread our viands.

"Nifty speed!" Harry Underwood commented.

Tears Temporarily Stifled

"Pipe down, you two," Dicky commanded. "Don't you see them 'pluming themselves visibly, upon your encomiums. They haven't done anything that the average commuter's wife doesn't pull every morning of her life before the seven fifty-six."

"But not from scratch, Dearie," Lillian retorted.

Dicky grinned widely, and something in his expression told me that he was deliberately getting Lillian and me into one of our old humorous controversies that we might no longer dwell upon the sinister experience through which we had just gone, and the "investigation" to come. I resolved to play up and rein in the fears which kept disturbing me.

"We might as well confess," I told Lillian resignedly, then turned to our men.

"We didn't start from scratch, either," I said. "The last thing Katie does each night is to put a teakettle of freshly boiled water upon the pilot light of the gas stove, so that we'll always have hot water for any emergency. I know that it's a crime to use anything except water fresh from the tap and boiled within the quarter hour for coffee or tea, but—this was an emergency."

"We'll forgive you this time," Dicky said with an air of great magnanimity. "And now, Dad, what is it you want us to do about that dud out there?"

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was the big day at school. I was thinking about it when I woke up, and when I let Jubilee down and closed the window I almost got my pants on hind side before I was thinking about Valentine day so much. If I had got them on backwards and my father had opened the stair door he would of thought I was going up instead of coming down. But I found out my mistake in time to get them turned around, and that was lucky. I got my valentines out from under my pillow and put names on them, and left them there till I got my work done and my face fed, and then I went up and got them, and when I came down again Feeble and Maggie and Younias were there, and they all had wrapped up valentines, and so did most of the bunch. Feeble's hand is so bunged up she still carries everything in her left hand, so I carried her books for her, so she could carry her valentines. I don't think Younias liked it very well.

When we got to school there was a big box on the teacher's desk, and we had our eyes on it all day, and after the bell rang for school to be out the teacher said, "Good night, children, and I hope you have a nice holiday tomorrow." We all just sot still, and Younias said, "Aren't you forgetting the valentines?" And the teacher said, "Oh, so I am'" and the way her eyes looked I bet she knew it all the time.

She took the valentines out and read the names and we went and got them, and one of them had Niba name and Red's name on it, and the teacher said she didn't know what to do about that one and she guessed they'd have to divide it. It was in a big fancy looking package and Red got hold of it first, then Niba grabbed at it and it tore in two and Red slapped Niba acrosst the face and Niba punched Red, and then the teacher pulled them apart, and she took the paper off of the valentine and there was nothing but a piece of pasteboard. We all laughed at them and they certainly looked silly. I got four pretty ones, and the look I got from Younias was worth all of them. Her eyes looked like stars.

The teacher got the most of the valentines in the box. I skun out after school and went and got one for Gimmie. I could of give her one of mine and kept the half dollar, but I'm not that kind of a fella. Besides the one that sent it to me would have knowed where Gimmie got it.

My fatner let me go out after supper, and me and Jubilee took it to her house and put it in front of the door and rang the bell, and and hid and saw her open the door and pick it up, and she was so happy she squealed. It was a cold night but I was glad all the way home. I like to make people happy when it don't cost anything.

3 SCHOOLS TO MEET ON DEBATE FLOOR

Harding, Galion and Bucyrus Teams To Discuss Question Tuesday.

Harding High School's debate teams will meet in its first three-school debate Tuesday night. The home debate will be held at 7:45 p. m. in east hall of the high school with the Marion affirmative team against the Bucyrus negative teams. Marion's negative team will travel to Galion. The teams of the three schools will reverse this schedule on Feb. 25.

Marion chain and independent merchants have been helpful in securing material for the debate question which concerns chain stores.

The question is one which is being debated statewide in 24 states, and is the subject of individual school debates in the other 24 states. A national debate on the question will be held some time in June.

Harding's affirmative team is made up of Bob Rosenberg, Joe Roby and Whitney Cookston and Catherine Marshall, Garnet Thomasson and Virginia Shipley make up the negative team.

Professor Marshman of Ohio Wesleyan university will judge the debate here Tuesday night, and at Galion, Prof. Bernard Griffiths of Ohio Wesleyan will act as judge.

The debate on Feb. 25 will be held at 3 p. m in the auditorium of Central Junior High school.

SORE THROATS

A sore spot no larger than a quarter can spread to the whole throat overnight. Gargle the very moment you feel the least soreness. Physicians recommend Bayer Aspirin for this purpose. It allays all inflammation immediately. It reduces the infection. Just crush three tablets in ⅓ tumblerful of water, and gargle well. It's a wise plan to take Bayer Aspirin after exposure to bad weather or whenever a cold threatens. If you ever have neuralgia, neuritis, or rheumatism, you should never be without this quick antidote for all such aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless. See that tablets bear the name, thus:

"Man to Man" Opens at Ohio

BASED on Ben Ames Williams' magazine story, "Barber John's Son," the Warner Bros.-Vitaphone production, "Man to Man," opened last night at the Ohio for a three-day run.

Grant Mitchell, veteran stage actor, gives an excellent portrayal of Barber John, the ex-convict, who returns to his home town in an attempt to live down the stigma of having been a penitentiary inmate. The old-timers remember his crime, which was murder, and claim he was justified in committing the act, but the younger generation is skeptical and makes it difficult for Barber John to win confidence.

Even his own son, a part played by Phillip Holmes, is ashamed of the father, but the father-son affection reveals itself when Holmes' accounts at the bank are short. Each admits his guilt, thinking it will save the other. When the real thief is discovered, the two are reunited.

Lucille Powers, as Holmes' sweetheart, George Marion, as the barber, and Vint Glade, as Holmes' rival in love, are the other leads.

Andrew Tombes, former Follies star, is featured in a Vitaphone short. Other items on the program are a Graham McNamee newsreel and a Walt Disney talkartoon.

2 Noted Little Girls Soon to Have Birthdays

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Two of the country's most popular little girls—Peggy Ann Hoover and Paulina Longworth—soon will celebrate their fifth and sixth birthdays on the anniversaries of two great saints.

Peggy Ann Hoover will have her party Tuesday in the White House and Patricks day, March 17 Miss Longworth will reach her sixth in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth on St. Valentine's day.

Hearts and cupids will play no conspicuous part in the birthday of little Paulina, however. She is a rambunctious little miss and is now attending school. Some quiet celebration with her parents will mark the day.

Paulina entered school last fall in Cincinnati, which is her home when congress is not in session. At Christmas time she came to Washington and since then has been attending school here.

She leads a quiet, simple life. She often does her own shopping accompanied by her mother or her nurse, but picking out articles of clothing for herself.

Little Peggy Ann Hoover is a breath of western breeze transported to the White House. She and her little brother, Herbert 3rd, keep house lively on the third floor of the executive mansion while their father and mother are in Asheville, North Carolina to the importance of Peggy Ann and entering upon school life March 17, Peggy Ann will have on the gay green regalia of Old Erin to brighten up her White House birthday celebration.

Mrs. Hoover is a great hand at celebrating all the little family anniversaries so it is probable that Peggy Anns birthday, though small, will be a most pleasurable event.

AVERAGE GRADES

Prepare To Make Selections for Honor Society at Harding.

First steps towards the organization of the National Honor society at Harding High school are under way this week. Grades are being averaged to obtain the upper fourth of the classes.

From this list of 25 per cent of the students averaging the required grade, the faculty will select some time next week, those students most nearly reaching the standards of the society of leadership, scholarship, character and service.

Announcement of the elections to the society probably will be made late next week.

WHY TAKE PILLS?

THERE'S no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennyholm, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HOME OWNED I.G.A. STORES

NOTICE To Local Housewives:

Ordinary City Water and Soaps Will Not Clean Dishes Thoroughly . . . Because Water Is Too Hard

For best results in any home washing just add this new water-softening cleanser to soap and water. Takes ¼ the usual amount of soap—saves ½ the time and effort.

• • •

WOMEN here are discovering an easy, inexpensive way to avoid the greasy film on dishes and greasy scum in dish pan that follows washing in this hard water. They claim amazingly fine results.

This new discovery is not a soap—but a water-softening cleanser that gives any soap four times its cleansing efficiency by turning "hard" water into "soft".

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing wafer. Just a teaspoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time ONE-HALF or more.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1930, women used over 33,000,000 packages of Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics, costly china. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them. Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages. 17-R4

Hollywood Melting Pot for Numerous Crafts

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Hollywood has become the melting pot for arts and crafts!

The motion picture industry today employs more craftsmen who specialize in unique and unusual trades than any other business, according to a survey of the staffs of several studios here.

The skilled craftsmen of almost any unusual art can often find a market for his skill in a motion picture studio. There has been a slow but sure increase in the demand for skill and ingenuity in the many unusual fields of lesser known arts of the studio.

These artisans, however, rarely ever appear before the camera, or have any connection with acting, directing, writing scenarios or operating cameras. Their crafts deal with the technical details necessary in the production of a motion picture.

A large number of these workers now employed by the studios have become adept at different occupations in the film industry aside from their first art.

A check-up conducted by the accounting department of one Hollywood studio disclosed such freak occupations as these:

Grass carpet "grower"; cobweb spinning expert; expert dust and snow blower; "breakaway" man, who makes resin glassware and Balsa wood furniture; a wig-maker, who specializes in false eyebrows, moustaches and sideburns; a table-setter and a portrait painter; also adept as a "wax-cook," making wax flowers and fruit.

Still more queer jobs were revealed in a further survey of this studio.

There were miniature set makers, who construct the tiny models to aid in the construction of life-size settings. Two gem experts and a magician were included in a score or more of important experts.

And, of course, there were doctors and lawyers, electricians and chiropractors, librarians and museum experts, sound physicists and inventors, animal imitators and tailors, typesetters and linotype operators.

HARDING TO MEET ASHLAND TONIGHT

PRESIDENTS HOPEFUL OF HANDING VISITORS FIRST LOSS OF YEAR

Mansfield Tackles Galion; Bucyrus Entertaining Shelby in Other N. C. O. Games.

"STALL THE BALL" will be the order issued by Coach Rosie Starn of the Ashland basketball team when the Hilltoppers clash tonight on The Star floor with the Harding High team. The Ashland mentor maintains that Harding is stronger than given credit for and that Ashland will have to work hard if it is to maintain its undefeated record.

The Ashland-Harding game may fairly be considered the headliner of the trio listed for tonight inasmuch as the result may have a lot to do with what team is the eventual winner of the flag. There is no doubt now that Ashland has a big advantage over any contender for the honor but a Harding victory would put a decided crimp in ambitions of the Starnmen. Galion is stepping at a fast clip lately and is figured to give Ashland a stiff battle when the two meet in two weeks.

Out of Flag Race

Harding is definitely out of the flag race. Nevertheless, the Bohyermen are expected to put up a hard battle against Ashland in an effort to avenge a beating taken from the same team in the first round. Harding is also desirous of elevating itself into a position higher than fifth place. If the Presidents take another loss tonight there is little hope of their finishing higher than fifth place, where they languish at present.

The starting lineup of the Harding team is somewhat of a mystery. Coach Bohyer has been shifting his proteges around quite extensively in an effort to find a smooth working combination, something that has for the most part been lacking all season.

The lineup of last week which had Clay and Morgan at forward, Smith at center and Merkel and Lindsey at guard will probably be shaken up before the start of tonight's game. Smith is expected to start at center. Morgan, Merkel and Lindsey appear certain to start although Merkel may again pair with Morgan at a forward instead of playing guard. Whether Clay will start is uncertain.

Mansfield at Galion

Vieing with the Harding-Ashland clash for the interest of the league's followers will be the Galion-Mansfield battle at Galion. Mansfied has high hopes of upsetting the Orangemen and thus eliminating the McClintock-coached outfit from further consideration for the championship. However, Mansfield doesn't look like a very good bet to hand the Orangemen their third beating of the year. Galion should win by a comfortable margin.

Shelby will pay Bucyrus a visit tonight and incidentally hand the former brilliantly hued Redmen—now the delicately tinted Pale Pinks—another beating. The Whippets should have little difficulty in beating the Bucktown boys although for a short time in the game with Ashland last week Bucyrus exhibited more strength than at any time this year.

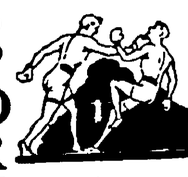
SPORT PUNCH



by KARL R. McELROY

THIS is fast becoming a land of opportunity.

With boxing on the wane, wrestling is facing one of its greatest opportunities in history. In every city in which the sport is being promoted it is being received with more than a little acclaim by fans.

Since the passing of Dempsey and Tunney, boxing has failed to rally. Its decline probably dates back to the time Jack Dempsey gave up the heavyweight throne.

After Tunney retired, the sport went to pieces and has not been put back together again. Efforts to name a new champ have been complete failures. Max Schmeling, the big German who won by a foul over Sharkey, might just as well be in retirement. Of course he is scheduled to defend his title in the near future but there seems to be some difficulty in getting a city to sponsor the event.

• • •

ONE of the outstanding reasons for the decline of boxing in popularity is the fact that there has been no one man who can stand head and shoulders above the rest of the mugs. Plenty of boys are swinging the gloves nowadays but they lack that something which makes fans rush the gates eager to turn over big money to watch them work.

Opportunity is literally pounding upon the door of wrestling. New York is welcoming the sport and it already has a firm foothold on Boston. Philadelphia and many other of the big cities of the east seem to have no trouble in drawing the fans to the groan-and-grunt matches.

The future of the sport depends much on promoters, managers and the wrestlers themselves. As the sport now exists there are five or six men on the average claiming championships in each division. If the big boys of the game can find some method of eliminating this confusion from the minds of fans the sport will have made great progress toward bigger and better things.

Harvey To Meet Vince Dundee In Return Battle

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—A return bout between Len Harvey, British middleweight champion, and Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, heads Madison Square Garden's weekly card tonight.

Harvey dumped Dundee on the floor twice in their first meeting but the rugged Italian got up to carry the fight to his British rival and win a decision in 12 rounds.

Harvey was just off the boat when he battled Dundee the first time. Now with a few more weeks of training, the Briton thinks he can wipe that defeat off a record that shows only two reverses in something like 350 ring engagements.

Harvey rules a slight favorite in the betting. The bout is at 12 rounds and there is a possibility that the New York state athletic commission will recognize the winner as 160-pound champion of the world. The crown has gone a-begging in this state since Mickey Walker was stripped of it by the commission several weeks ago.

Moskin Clothiers Are Beaten by Mt. Gilead

The Marion Moskins stepped up into slightly faster competition last night and as a result took a 41 to 35 beating from the Blaney Buicks of Mt. Gilead. Marion played on even terms in the first quarter but could not match the pace after that.

"DUDE" CHICK SIGNED FOR FEB. 23 MATCH IN SHOVEL ARENA

BY KARL R. McELROY

JOE BANASKI will defend his light heavyweight wrestling title here Monday night, Feb. 23 in the outstanding sports attraction booked on the local record books this season.

Promoters in a long distance telephone conversation today announced that Banaski, the choice of the Mid-West Wrestling association for the title, had consented to meet "Dude" Chick, the rough Texan, at the Steam Shovel gym.

In consenting to take on Chick, Banaski has pitted himself against one of the toughest—and by the way, the toughest—175-pounders in the business today. Banaski, who won the crown earlier in the year, has been a very popular champion with the fans. He has been risking his title frequently and meeting men who are real threats.

Chick already holds a victory over Joe. The Texan, some eight or 10 pounds overweight, won over Banaski at Toronto, Canada, several weeks ago. Failing to enter the ring in the proper class, Chick had no chance to win the title.

The Texan has notified promoters that he will be able to tip the Toledos at not more than 175 pounds the day he is to meet the title-holder. Knowing that he holds a victory over Banaski and realizing that the crown will not only mean the possession of a belt worth about $5,000 but $50,000 a year in engagements, Chick is preparing for the contest earnestly.

In booking the match promoters felt confident that it would prove one of the greatest drawing cards ever offered in the Shovel ring.

BASKETS and BANKBOARDS

BY "PHOG" ALLEN

This is the sixth of a series of basketball articles written by Forest C. (Phog) Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas. Allen here discusses the rules which will come under fire at the meetings this year of the coaches and rules committees.

• • •

By The Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—An opportunity to voice opinions soon will arise for those interested in changing the form of basketball.

The chance will come when the National Basketball Coaches association meets in New York, March 26-28, and at the meeting of the National Joint Basketball Rules committee at the same place, April 9-11.

Over 200 leading coaches, it is estimated, will attend the meeting of their association, of which Howard P. Ortner, Cornell coach, is president. The organization, now five years old, was brought into existence to protest against removal of the dribble from basketball. As a result, this feature of the game which has been discussed each year since, was reinstated by the joint rules committee.

• • •

THE coaches association, however, has no legislative power in making or suggesting rules to the joint committee. Without this power though, it has been a helpful aid to the rule makers, both in suggesting changes and in helping prevent the adoption of proposed measures which later might have proved to be unnecessary and even harmful.

The joint rules committee composed of 10 representatives from the Y. M. C. A., an equal number from the Amateur Athletic union and National Collegiate Athletic association, two members each from the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations, Canadian Amateur Basketball association, and Chartered Board of Officials, will send out a questionnaire in March which will seek opinions regarding the center jump, stalling, the one-bounce dribble, and other proposed rule changes.

• • •

THE Center Jump—There still is agitation regarding the elimination of the center jump. No doubt this feature of putting the ball in play will be retained. However, some sort of zoning, such as drawing a large circle around the center circle and requiring the other eight players to remain outside the circle until the ball is tipped, may be suggested.

• • •

STALLING—There is less of this objectionable feature this year than ever before due to the fact that many coaches found it good strategy to resort to a fast break on the slow breaking teams.

This slow breaking business is bad basketball against a fast passing and clever team. Invariably, the crowd is gainst the actionless type of game. The hustling crew always enlists the non-partisan following.

• • •

THE One-Bounce Dribble—It has been proposed to limit the dribble to one-bounce in the defensive half of the court. I think this suggestion is a poor one.

The dribble has made basketball. The football player, prior to 1905, would not play basketball because it seemed a girls' game to him. With the adoption of the dribble play, the gridiron men took up the game and today it is a rare exception to find a basketball team without several gridiron luminaries.

The clever dribbler has developed a more clever and shifty guard to meet this versatile play. Truly, the dribble has popularized the game.

Marion Y Volleyball Team Is Defeated

The Marion Y volleyball team was defeated last night for the second time this year by the Tiffin Y. M. C. A. team, three of five games. The games were played on the Marion floor.

Scores of the games are as follows: Tiffin 15, Marion 12; Tiffin 15, Marion 4; Marion 15, Tiffin 4; Tiffin 15, Marion 13, and Marion 15, Tiffin 6.

Marion players were Biddle, Siefert, Heininger, Laner, Tilsworth, Mickley and Fisher. Tiffin players were Krupp, Sloan, Galster, Work, Leiner, Knestrick, Remsburg, McPhail and Graham.

BRUINS TO GIVE HACK 8 UNIFORMS

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—Poor Hack Wilson! The major league home run champion recently signed a fat contract with the Cubs, and now the club has retaliated by limiting him to eight uniforms for the 1931 season.

Wilson has a propensity for getting his suits dirty in a hurry, so the management decided to buy him four uniforms for home use, and four for the road.

The rest of the Cubs also will be pretty well outfitted. Each will have two home uniforms and two more for the road, and all four sets will be of different pattern. To cope with the changes in weather, two heavyweight and two lightweight sweatshirts have been purchased for the athletes.

HOLMAN NAMED COACH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13 — Allen H. Holman, an assistant Ohio State university football coach, has announced his appointment as head coach at Franklin & Marshall college, Lancaster, Pa., succeeding Dr. J. K. Miller, resigned. Holman was a former state football star.

WESLEYAN CLINGS TO HALF GAME LEAD IN BUCKEYE CONFERENCE

Four Other Teams Threaten Seriously To Oust Bishops from Top.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13 — The sixth week of competition in the Buckeye basketball conference finds the championship horizon clouded with doubts. Ohio Wesleyan still holds the leadership, but any of the other four teams appear as strong as the current leader.

The events of Wednesday night—Ohio university defeated Ohio Wesleyan and Denison beat Cincinnati—placed the Ohio university Bobcats in the role of the leading challenger. Only a half game margin separates the first and second place teams.

Two conference games will be played Saturday night, the results of which may displace Ohio Wesleyan as leader. Ohio will play the Miami Redskins at Oxford and Cincinnati will meet Wesleyan at Delaware. Miami passed through a moral revival last week, however, and it is possible the games will serve to strengthen the Bishops' advantage.

The margin of Wesleyan's two conference defeats was only three points. Miami beat the Methodists 29 to 28, and Ohio beat them 30 to 28. Despite these losses, Wesleyan is a slight favorite over Cincinnati.

In non-conference games, the University of Detroit quintet will play Wittenberg at Springfield tonight, and Denison will play at Oberlin Saturday night. Only four conference games remain to be played after this week.

FRENCHMAN VICTOR IN INDOOR CLASSIC

Seraphin Martin Shows Flash of Speed To Capture Meadowbrook 660.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—A three thousand mile ocean voyage and two weeks of intensive training on indoor tracks has been crowned with success for Seraphin Martin, leading middle distance runner of France and holder of the world's record of 800 meters.

After a disappointing race in the international half mile in the millrose games last Saturday, Martin showed a return to form last night in winning the classic Meadowbrook 660, feature event of the annual indoor games at Philadelphia's arena.

The blue shirted French runner, the red insignia of the Stade Francais on his chest, led Eddie Blake and Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland to the tape, Bakle was six yards behind and the good doctor was half a lap back, in sixth place.

The time of 1:22.4 was the second best time ever made in the Meadowbrook games.

The French automobile mechanic's performance served notice on American speedsters that he must be reckoned with in the rest of his American campaign, which closes late this month in the national championships.

DELAWARE CLUB HEARS WARNER

Marion Man Addresses Republican Women at Lincoln Day Meeting.

A reestablishment of the principles for which Abraham Lincoln lived and died was urged by Fred W. Warner, Marion attorney and former state Republican chairman, in a Lincoln Day address last night before the Delaware County Republican Women's club at Delaware.

"It is high time we of the Republican party ceased to prate of the glory of Lincoln and started to reestablish his principles instead," Warner declared.

An exchange has been made, Warner said, of the plain, open and magnanimous principles of Lincoln for the selfish, unapprecative, unscrupulous and shrewd policies of the present day.

Political platforms, the former state chairman asserted, are not discussed with a view of arriving at a solution meant for the good of the country, but solely with reference to their vote-gathering ability. The policy of right, he said, has been entirely suborned to the policy of expediency.

Instead of stressing the merit of political principles, candidates instead use as their sole cry "what can we do to get elected?" Warner said.

Warner attacked the direct primary as one of the greatest evils of government today. He urged instead the return to the convention system.

TO SPEAK ON HOLY LAND

Rev. Fred T. Fuge of Columbus will give an illustrated lecture on "The Holy Land, Egypt and Greece," Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the First Church of the Nazarene. Rev. Fuge has spent nearly 25 years in the ministry in foreign mission fields. He also will deliver a missionary address Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and will be the speaker for evangelistic services at 7:30 p. m.

Contentment is rather easy to attain if one is lazy.

150 FATHERS, SONS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Talk by F. E. Guthery and Magic by W. W. Durbin Feature Entertainment

An address by Fred E. Guthery, Marion attorney, and a magic entertainment by W. W. Durbin of Kenton were the principal features of the annual father and son banquet at the First Presbyterian church last night. Approximately 150 men and boys attended.

Mr. Guthery's talk related chiefly to Abraham Lincoln and his career and ideals in observance of the one hundred and twenty-second anniversary of Lincoln's birth. Recent criticisms of Lincoln in a book written by a modern biographer were deplored by the speaker as untimely and unjustified. Mr. Guthery said that although Lincoln was thoroughly human and consequently not perfect, his democratic Americanism and service to humanity could not be questioned.

Mr. Durbin's contribution to the program was thoroughly enjoyed by both fathers and sons. Much of his extensive legerdermain equipment, assembled through years of activity in the realm of magic, was used in a program of entertainment lasting more than an hour. Two assistants from Kenton were used in staging his act. Mr. Durbin, whose chief occupation is as a manufacturer and who is also widely known as an Ohio political leader, has followed magic as a diversion and hobby for many years. He is president of the International Association of Magicians.

Harry Johnson, president of the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church, was program chairman. Music throughout the evening was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra under direction of L. B. McNeal.

HALF CITY'S STREETS ARE HARD SURFACED

Service Department Finds 43 Miles of Permanent Construction.

Forty-three miles, or nearly 50 per cent of Marion's streets are hard surfaced, according to a survey of the city just completed by employes of the service department.

If all the streets in the city were placed end to end, there would be a roadway formed 92.2 miles long, nearly long enough to join Marion and Cleveland.

Figures compiled in the survey reveal exactly 43.05 miles of pavement are hard surfaced, including 20.03 of brick, 3.50 of asphalt block, 15.12 of sheet asphalt, 2.56 of concrete, 1,225 feet of amiesite, and 855 feet of wood block. Other surfaces include 16.80 miles of stone and 3.97 miles of cinders. The remaining 22.36 is untreated or dirt pavement.

Accurate figures as to the length of paved streets total only 90.2, or two miles less than the aggregate length of all streets. This is because intersections common to two or more streets are included in the length of only one street when accurate figures are obtained.

In addition to the streets, the city has 1.84 miles of alleys paved with brick, amiesite or concrete.

Sidewalk statistics show the city has 98.2 miles of sidewalk, including 88 miles of stone walk and 10.2 miles of concrete.

100 AT BANQUET

Father And Son Meeting Held at Caledonia Church.

CALEDONIA, Feb. 13—One hundred attended the father and son banquet Wednesday night in the dining room at Memorial M. E. church. The dinner was served at 7:30 by the Ladies' Aid society. The tables were decorated in keeping with Lincoln's birthday. The Boy Scouts had charge of the room decorations. An orchestra under the direction of W. A. Trichler contributed several selections.

G. W. Cox, superintendent of the local school, acted as toastmaster. M. D. Shumaker gave the welcome address in behalf of the fathers and Wayne Hall gave the response for the sons. Rev. W. K. Mackey, chaplain at the Mansfield reformatory, delivered the address on "What Are You Worth?" Rev. Michel made a few remarks and gave a short talk.

One application for membership was balloted on at a well attended meeting of Vera chapter No. 64, Order of Eastern Star, last night. Final arrangements were made for the benefit card party at the home of Mrs. Melvin Pommert Friday afternoon. Further arrangements were made for inspection April 22.

She died early Wednesday morning of injuries sustained in an accident Monday afternoon on South Main street. Rev. B. Tyler Gates, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, officiated at the services this afternoon. Interment was made in Marion cemetery.

Gasoline Prices Up Two Cents Gallon

Boost Becomes Effective Today; Cost Still Below State Level.

Gasoline prices in Marion and vicinity changed again today, this time the scale having increased two cents a gallon in contrast to the decreases which occurred during January.

Regular gasoline at filling stations operated by the major oil companies now is 16 cents a gallon and the higher tests are 19 and 20 cents.

The scale for the last three weeks has been 14 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 17 and 18 cents for the better grades.

An independent station, whose prices have been 15 cents for the regular and 17 cents for a higher test did not change its scale today.

The new price range is for stations only in Marion and vicinity which are served by the bulk companies located here.

Today's increase marks the fourth time since the year opened that prices have fluctuated here. The 14-cent price which has been operative for the last three weeks was the lowest gasoline has been here for several years and is believed to have been the lowest price in the state this year.

No reason was ascribed for the increase today. It was pointed out however, that the 16-cent scale still is one cent lower than the scale over the state.

—Star, Feb. 7.

The cost of gasoline delivered in tank cars including State tax is now 11¾ cents.

The State wide service station price is 17 cents.

The State wide tank wagon price is 16 cents.

A discount of 2 cents from tank wagon price is allowed to dealers and commercial accounts.

A commercial account is any one who buys from tank wagon.

Why do the large oil companies make a practice of delivering gasoline on credit at 14 cents while charging the cash and carry customer 17 cents?

Nobody knows.

—but we have our suspicions.

Most of the competition the major companies have is with retail independent stations.

The investment required to handle a bulk station with tank wagon deliveries is too great for the majority of independent dealers with small capital.

Therefore—

They fix the retail price high enough to enable them to sell by tank wagon to the independent dealer's potential customer for 3 cents a gallon less.

—and they call us price cutters (frequently we are referred to as bootleggers).

Why?

Because we sell gasoline direct from tank car at the same margin of 3 cents per gallon which they allow their dealers.

When we refuse to maintain the retail price they fix (so they can cut our price 3 cents) they get mad.

—and the price goes down.
—then up.

Do they fool the public?

Yes and No.

Our sales dropped slightly during the last price war. That's the "Yes" part of the public.

But it was very gratifying how large the "No" part of the public stood by us.

With gasoline costing 4¼ cents and 3½ cents freight or a total of 7¾ cents, our price shows a mark-up of 42% on our cost or a gross profit of 30% on our sales.

Were we to meet the present State wide price of 17 cents as insisted on by the major companies, our mark-up on cost would be 67% or a gross profit of 40% on our sales.

And others in the oil business think (because they are in the oil business) that we are fools for not taking that extra profit as they contend that the public does not appreciate our efforts to keep down the price of gasoline and oil.

Again Yes and No.

But we will continue to lay our bet on the public, in fact from recent experiences we are willing to give odds.

Any how, we want to thank You and You and You for helping us to retain our confidence in the public appreciating our efforts.

OILS SMOOTH WAY FOR BULLS

Stocks Show Signs of Tiring in Late Trading on Big Board.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Oil shares were brought forward to smooth the way for the infant bull movement in the stock market today.

The impetuous recovery showed decided signs of tiring as trading was resumed after the holiday, but setbacks were checked, first by bidding up the coppers and utilities, and later by bullish demonstrations in oils. The volume of trading shrank sharply, and some of the pivotal shares, notably U. S. Steel, had sinking spells, but Wall Street had been inclined to look for a substantial technical reaction after the vigorous rise earlier in the week, and was impressed with the bulls ability to carry on as well as they did.

The strength of the oil shares seemed to reflect little save a professional move against shorts in that group. The firmer tendency of gasoline prices in the east was counterbalanced by a cut of 2 cents a gallon initiated by Standard in Indiana in the Chicago area. In the meantime, the industry remained unsettled by the tapping of new reserves in eastern Texas, controversies over proration and a demand for a tariff.

The report of electric power production for the first week of February showed a somewhat larger than seasonal decline. On the other hand, the department of the interior's report on power production during 1930 was mildly encouraging, showing a drop from the banner year, 1929, of less than 2 per cent. In the previous year of sharp business depression, 1921, power production dropped nearly 6 per cent. Curtailment of water power production accounted for all of the 1930 decline, for power generated by fuel actually showed a small gain. In the years between 1921 and 1930, total power production showed successive gains ranging from 6 to nearly 17 per cent.

GRAINS HIT BY SHARP DROPS

Liverpool Declines Followed by Decided Downturns on Chicago Pit

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 — Sharp downturns in grains resulted early today from acute weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool associated with increasing shipments by Argentina and Russia. Corn receipts in Chicago 550 cars, were larger than either a week or a year ago. Starting ¾@2¾ cents off, wheat afterward held near to the initial range. Corn opened ¾@1¼ lower and subsequently displayed little power to rally.

Reports of heavy rains in domestic wheat territory that has complained of moisture shortage gave an advantage to bears. Persistent lack of a snow blanket continued through the winter wheat belt, however, together with entire absence of accumulations of snow in mountain regions from which wheat southwest usually draws sustenance. Argentine shipments for the last week totaled 527,000 bushels more than had been forecast and much exceeded the aggregate for the week previous or the corresponding week of 1930.

Russia, although expected to cease shipping wheat during the winter, exported 2,032,000 bushels in the last week. British millers were reported grinding large quantities of Russian wheat, and doing a profitable business owing to the low price. Australian wheat exports were almost triple those of a year ago. United States wheat primary receipts amounted to 2,036,000 bushels against 1,240,000 a week ago, and 603,000 at this time last year. Oats declined with wheat and corn.

Provisions averaged higher because of scarcity of offerings

O'NEILL FREED IN CLYDE, O., SLAYING

Man Said To Be from Marion Released by Fremont Authorities.

Charles O'Neill, 24, said to be of Marion and formerly of Mansfield, has been freed by Fremont authorities after being held as a suspect in the slaying of Russell Gibbs, 21, a Clyde garageman, according to International News Service reports.

O'Neill was released after a preliminary hearing before a Fremont justice yesterday in which the testimony failed to show he was implicated in the suspected murder. Charles Jeffrey, 28, of Columbus, was bound over to the grand jury on charges of first degree murder after the hearing.

O'Neill is said to have left Fremont with his father, Frank O'Neill, and two brothers, for Marion where they reside. Inquiry today failed to reveal the O'Neill family living here.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of our darling little Mary, born February 19, 1922, died February 13, 1930.

No stain on her little heart,
No sin had entered there,
And innocence slept sweetly
On her pale brow, so fair.

She was too pure for this cold earth, so God's Holy Angels took our darling little Mary home.

Sadly missed by her Mama and Daddy, Sister and Brother.

ASSAILS MASTERS

Judge Matthias Calls Lincoln Critic "False Portrayer."

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13—Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio Supreme court last night declared Edgar Lee Masters, in his new biography of Lincoln, "outdoes Sinclair Lewis as a false portrayer of American character."

Judge Matthias, delivering a Lincoln day address at a banquet of veterans of the Civil, Spanish and World wars, said "It is passing strange that occasionally there appears an author, who becoming desperate for public attention, makes an attempt to raise himself from obscurity and achieve notoriety by pulling some great American from the pedestal of honor and reverence on which he has been placed'"

"WILD MAN" SPREADS TERROR IN AIRPLANE

Passenger Mentally Unbalanced by "Air Sickness," Is Physician's Opinion.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb. 13 — A man who endangered the lives of two fellow passengers and the pilot of a Chicago-Detroit airplane with his eccentric actions, was under observations in the psychopathic ward of receiving hospital today.

He is James J. Mangan, advertising manager for a Chicago novelty company. The reason for his strange actions has not been determined, but a physician said last night there might have been a manifestation of air sickness.

Louis Steward of Plano, Ill., the pilot, said Mangan leaped from his seat, shouting at the top of his voice, when the plane was over South Bend, Ind., and tried several times to climb into the control room of the plane, shouting that he wanted "to help you run this plane."

Then Steward said, "he would run back and forth in the plane, once in a while opening the door and throwing out money." The other passengers were terrified, the pilot said.

By fighting Mangan off with one hand when he attempted to enter the control room, Steward brought the plane safely to land at city airport. There four policemen took Mangan to the hospital.

CHURCHES FAVOR AIDING SCOUTS

Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, and president of the Marion County Ministerial association, today gave his indorsement of the Boy Scout movement, whose twenty-first birthday anniversary here in America is being celebrated this week by local Scouts.

The ministers' indorsement follows:

"One of the major objectives of adult life is the preparation of the succeeding generation for the responsibilities of the future. The churches, schools, and other institutions of the community are endeavoring to aid the youth of today in proper character formation. The Boy Scout movement is a definite aid in character training. The plans and the objectives for the Scout leaders all center in training boys for right living and useful citizenship. It is a satisfaction to the churches and to church workers to assist in the promotion of Scout activities. The members of the churches of Marion are pleased to see the interest taken in the Boy Scouts of the city and county."

Toss-Toss-Toss All Night Long!

Sleepless Nights a Penalty of Acidity

When you go to bed at night tired and exhausted and still can't sleep and you toss fitfully on your bed all night long, trying first one position and then another it's almost a sure sign that you are "acid." Excess acid, formed in the stomach as a result of our unnatural living habits, causes acid-indigestion with sourness, burning and gassy fullness. It also plays havoc with our nerves, making us jumpy, fidgety and so restless at night that we can't sleep, even though we be dog-tired.

Magnesia Oxolds, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxolds generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movements of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxolds from Bradley's Drug Store, or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, you don't get more than amazing results, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund the purchase price promptly.—Adv.

Every Dollar Does Full Service in Drouth Area

Small Sums Provide Amazing Amount of Good for Sufferers; State Agencies Furnish Work for Largest Possible Number.

Editors Note: This is the third of a series on conditions in the Ohio drouth area.

• • •

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—The value of money and its equivalent in food and clothing have never been stretched to greater extremes than in southern Ohio today, so far as the Buckeye state is concerned.

Nineteen dollars a week is a handsome salary, especially to a man with a large family who had almost become accustomed to getting along on a quarter of that sum or less. And only the neediest of the needy, who were caught in the full effect of the drouth and unemployment are getting that.

The rest are being cared for by weekly grocery orders worth anywhere from $2 to $6, through the beneficence of the Red Cross and other organized agencies, by gifts of clothing from those who can afford to give, and by milk supplies for the children.

Some Work Provided

One source of salaries is the state highway maintenance and repair fund, part of which has been distributed over 27 counties in the area covered by the state relief committee so as to give employment to 20 men for one week in each county.

These jobs have been made available in alternate periods to provide an equal distribution among the men whose families are most destitute and all the counties either have or are prepared to take advantage of them. Twenty jobs to a county seems like a small number, compared with the total population of the area, which is close to 900,000 but the $3.20 a day which each worker receives for six days goes a long way.

The national treasury of the Red Cross has poured cash into expanding area as fast as the budgets of the local community funds and organized relief societies have weakened under thes train.

Other Sources of Work

In the same measure that state highway resources have alleviated conditions and the department of agriculture, with forests and lakes to look after, and the department of public work are lending their aid.

And from Van Wert, a county in northern Ohio, come the pennies of school children, who have agreed to forego the exchange of valentines this week so they might add their bit to the Red Cross aid. They complied with the request of Urban E. Deiner, the superintendent of schools.

The sum they send into the southern drouth area will buy many meals for less fortunate children, however small it is. In the schools of Ironton 1,342 meals are being served weekly, one meal each day, to 268 pupils. The cost of the meals is being met by the local community fund.

The oil stoves in the one-room school houses in Ross county bear sizzling hot food for 300 other children, furnished and prepared by their teachers. And in the two-room school houses of Fayette county other youngsters eat daily of meals furnished by the neighbor women. Throughout the entire area children are thus being cared for.

Run Down? Tired? Underweight? Cheer Up, Here's Good News

In most cases of run-down condition the modern diet is at fault. Even if you eat three big meals a day you may be starving for vitamins! That's why you feel tired and worn out at the end of the day.

To remedy this condition doctors say you only have to add cod liver oil to your diet. But unfortunately it has such a nasty, unpleasant taste.

But today, thanks to a marvelous discovery, you can get all the magic properties of cod liver oil in McCoy's tiny tasteless tablets! They give you everything you get in the liquid oil—all the vitamins, all the benefits, everything but the nasty taste! The Good Housekeeping Institute has tested these tablets and approved them.

So if you would add to your diet the vitamins you need, get your box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets at the nearest drug store today. You'll be amazed at your new pep and vigor. 60 tablets—60 cents.—Adv.

The Stars Say—

Saturday, Feb. 14.

THE astrological forecast for this day is favorable for those in employment, but holds the prospect of delays, disappointments and setbacks for other matters. However, lands, tenancies, personal property and dealings with elderly persons and old establishments may bring some advantages. But generally the influence is a depressing and frustrating one. Be careful against deception.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some advantage or recognition if in the employment of others, but otherwise there may be postponements and obstructions to be encountered during the year. There may be benefits from elderly persons or institutions and real estate and property interests may hold their own. A child born on this day should be steady, industrious and methodical and may win success through its application and merit and at the hands of elderly persons.

Daily Proverb—"There is always a clinging to the land of one's birth."

Huh! What if it is Friday, the 13th! Who's afraid?

A New York woman told a court there that her husband had beaten her twice a week regularly for the last forty-eight years, but that she still loves him and feels "hurt" because he left her. Let's see! Who was it that said: "Treat 'em rough?"

Canadian scientists, according to a Toronto dispatch, have discovered a way for baking bread with a vitamin D food element which will prevent rickets. If the story is substantiated when put to thorough tests, science may claim credit for the conferring of another blessing upon humanity.

Senator Borah wants the Hoover administration to say whether the terms of the proposed $20,000,000 drought relief compromise shall be understood to include loans for food, clothing and medicine. That's just like William. He's always insisting that the beans be spilled.

Back in Paris from China, Rev. Father Pierre Robert, assistant director of the French Catholic Foreign Missionary Fathers, says that communism is responsible for 20,000,000 deaths in China during the seven years begun in 1923. It's an awful toll for which bolshevism must one day answer.

Provision is made in the Kendall bill, which has passed both houses of congress, for a forty-four hour week in the postal service. We take it that our number is necessarily so limited that congress will hardly feel impelled to take any step to lighten the labor of us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

A. W. Benham, the former shipping clerk of Belvedere, Illinois, who has been paying his friends and neighbors from ten to thirty per cent. interest on judgment notes for more than a year, is estimated to have received all the way from $50,000 to $400,000 from them before the point was reached where he could not borrow enough to pay the interest, and his get-rich-quick scheme went blooey. Who ever would have imagined there were enough suckers in one locality to give up the amount indicated on an old game like that?

France Worries Over Wine Industry.

France is worrying over her wine industry, and not without cause. The world's wine crop is increasing annually, due in large part to the output of the comparatively new African vineyards, which means greater competition, while the consumption is declining year by year. The lowest estimates place the total of the increase in wine grape vineyards during the last three decades at 1,000,000 acres, and new methods are responsible for a decided increase in the amount of wine from any given production of grapes. By way of illustration, the average wine yield of the African vineyards has increased in the last eight years from less than 2,000 quarts to the acre to well over 2,500 quarts. The effect of the use of these new methods and the opening of new vineyards has been to increase the world's wine crop of 14,000,000,000 quarts annually before the World war to 16,000,000,000 quarts at present. With the falling-off in consumption, this has resulted in glutting the market with a consequent falling-off in revenue as the result of reduced prices.

The story of the lessened consumption is best understood when it is stated that in the chief fifteen wine-drinking countries, which have a total population of approximately 300,000,000, the annual per capita consumption, which was more than 600 quarts before the World war, dropped to 569 quarts in 1925 and fell to 514 quarts in 1929, the figures for which are the last attainable at this time. Thus there has been decrease in the annual per capita consumption in the chief wine-drinking countries of the world of approximately 100 quarts in the fifteen years from 1914 to 1929 inclusive.

Prohibition here in the United States can in no way be held responsible for this falling-off in wine consumption, for this is not recognized as a wine-drinking country and is not one of the fifteen countries considered. It is possible that wine has less appeal in the lands in question than it formerly had, but the probable explanation is that economic conditions have caused a curbing of the annual expenditures for wine, the wine drinkers resorting to the use of more water as an economy measure.

Whatever the cause, a reduction of 100 quarts in the annual per capita consumption in conjunction with a falling-off in prices as a result of overproduction gives France cause for worry, for the production of wine is one of her chief industries.

Mr. Hoover's Lincoln Day Address.

In his address broadcasted Thursday night from the room in the White House in which Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation proclamation, President Hoover utilized the problems which were faced by the "Great Emancipator" to make easy transition to the problems which this country faces today; from the dominant problem of states rights of Lincoln's day to the dominant problem of today, which in large degree hinges "upon the issue of the relationship of federal, state and local government responsibilities." This problem, he made plain, is the "increasing agitation that the federal government shall assume new financial burdens, that it shall undertake increased burdens in the regulation of abuses and in the prevention of crime!"

The President expressed his conviction that "where federal action is essential, then in most cases it should limit its responsibilities to supplement the states and local communities, and that it should not assume the major role or the entire responsibility, in replacement of the states or local government." To do otherwise, he held, would be to threaten the whole foundation of local government, which is the very basis of self-government.

Mr. Hoover very forcefully brought out that whenever any community shifted any of its responsibilities to Washington, particularly in economic and social questions, in that moment it subjects itself to a "remote bureaucracy with its minimum of understanding and of sympathy" and loses "a part of its voice and its control of its own destiny." When people divest themselves of local government responsibilities, he held, they at once lay the foundation for the destruction of their liberties.

Buried in this problem, the President held, lies something even deeper. "The whole of our government machinery," he went on, "was devised for the purpose that through ordered liberty we give incentive and equality of opportunity to every individual to rise to that highest achievement of which he is capable. At once when government is centralized there arises a limitation upon the liberty of the individual and a restriction of individual opportunity. The true growth of the nation is the growth of character in its citizens. The spread of government destroys initiative and thus destroys character. Character is made in the community as well as in the individual by assuming responsibilities, not by escape from them. Carried to its logical extreme, all this shouldering of individual and community responsibility upon the government can lead but to the superstate where every man becomes the servant of the state and real liberty is lost. Such was not the government that Lincoln sought to build."

Citing that success is not gained by leaning upon government to solve all our problems; that "that way leads to enervation of will and destruction of character," President Hoover said that victory over our difficulties "will be won by the resolution of our people to fight their own battles in their own communities, by simulating their ingenuity to solve their own problems, by taking new courage to be masters of their own destiny in the struggle of life. This is not the easy way, but it is the American way. And it was Lincoln's way.

"The ultimate goal of the American social ideal is equality of opportunity and individual initiative. These are not born of bureaucracy. This ideal is the expression of the spirit of our people. This ideal obtained at the birth of the republic. It was the ideal of Lincoln. It is the ideal upon which the nation has risen to unparalleled greatness."

The President's address was a needed message to the country, especially so in the face of the growing tendency of the citizens of its political divisions to look to the federal government for relief from any trials, tribulations or troubles from which they may suffer rather than seek relief in their home states, their home areas or their home communities. And it was especially timely, coming as it did when agitation looking to centralization of government has reached proportions never before attained.

Incidentally, it may be noted that the President, although he did not so say, indicated his belief that the position he has taken against centralization of government and consequent bureaucracy and the fight he is waging against paternalism would be the position taken and the battle waged by Abraham Lincoln were Lincoln in the White House today.

President William F. Ogburn, of the American Statistical association, predicts that there will be 175,000,000 people in the United States by 1970. Uhhuh! And at the present rate, every last mother's son of 'em will be drawing some kind of a pension or other.

A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature which provides for the equipping of the cars of all motorists convicted of reckless driving with red plates marked with the letters, "R. D.," which the motorists would be compelled to buy and display on their cars so long as the motor vehicle commissioner of the state or the court might direct. If the plates served no other purpose, they would give other drivers and all pedestrians notice of the approach of the potential killers.

Congressman Crail has introduced a bill to bar Edgar Lee Masters' "Lincoln, the Man" from the mails, charging that it is "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy and indecent" and declaring it a "scurrilous and unprincipled" attack on a good man whose memory is enshrined in the hearts of American citizens. What's he trying to do; boost its sale?

In deciding the $250,000 breach-of-promise suit of Miss Herta Rittel of Vienna, in favor of the defendant, Conant H. Hatch, of Niles, Michigan, on the ground that the association of the two both abroad and in this country was of a nature to preclude propriety of her claim on the defendant, Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley, of New York, brushed aside her claim that Hatch had told her a divorce was pending between him and his wife, saying: "No valid agreement to marry can be entered into with knowledge that one of the parties is married or that an unfinished divorce suit is pending." Here's one case, at least, where the law gets into line with both justice and good sense.

A SUGGESTION TO THE WORLD COURT .

Editorial Opinion.

TOO MUCH ZEAL.

Three representatives in congress, Mr. Connery, of Massachusetts; Mr. Patman, of Texas, and Mr. Rankin, of Mississippi, unchilled by fading of the scheme for the full cash payment of adjusted compensation certificates, have signed a manifesto calling to account National Vice Commander Williams and Legislative Agent Taylor of the American legion. At a meeting of representatives of most of the Massachusetts posts in Boston these gentlemen were too moderate and straightforward to satisfy the dauntless three. Vice Commander Williams was at the meeting in place of National Commander O'Neil, who was ill.

The remarks of the two visitors are printed in the Boston Herald. The vice commander said that he was for payment in some form, but that it was "secondary." The Legion was for "the disabled first" as against any plan that would prevent that. The national executive committee had indorsed "the principle of immediate refinement of adjusted compensation certificates, but it is for us to handle this matter in our own organization, and we are not going to tolerate anybody coming in from outside and telling us how to handle it." Is this considered disrespectful to the enthusiasts at Washington? "Let us not allow anybody to rush us into doing anything we don't want to do," added the vice commander.

Mr. Taylor spoke to the same effect. "The legislative job" of the Legion is to "take care of the people who suffered as a direct result of war service." The national executive committee had interpreted the action of the Legion convention in tabling a resolution for cash payment as meaning that the Legion didn't wish to discuss or initiate such a proposal. Moreover, the executive committee, though it favored the principle of immediate cash payment, expressly declared that the main object of the Legion is legislation for the further relief of the disabled and their dependents. It approved none of the specific bills introduced into congress. All this, said Mr. Taylor, is "controversial legislation." It did not originate in the Legion. If that body were wise, it would "leave it in the lap of congress."

He, too, didn't spare the feelings of the perfect, the superperfect, the professional friends of the veterans:

"Congress is going to do something about this, but your judgment is just as good as mine as to what will be done. If they are sincere, they will put through a piece of legislation adequate to meet the situation, but if they are not sincere, they will load it to the gunwales with everything that will make a veto certain."

The dauntless three have convinced themselves that Mr. Taylor's statement "appears to be a part of the scheme of the predatory interests to deny the veterans of the World war the payment of a just debt." So the Legion must be saved from itself and its erring officers by its only true friends. — New York Times.

"Crazy" Rumsey.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

In a recent story reference was made to James Rumsey, of Virginia, who though not much known to fame now, was a rival once with Fitch and Fulton for the honor of being the first successfully to apply steam to navigation. A friend who happens to know the story of the man personally writes that he was a resident of Shepherdstown, Virginia, now West Virginia. De Warville, a French traveler, tells of being invited, when in Philadelphia, to witness a demonstration of Rumsey's steamboat on the Delaware river. That demonstration was not given on September 1, 1788, before Rumsey had given a demonstration on the Potomac, at Shepherdstown, in which he threw the craft against the strong current of the river there and made it ascend the stream.

This demonstration was made in the presence of a large number of people, among them Horatio Gates, General William Darke, Colonel Phil Pendleton, Colonel Joseph Swearingen and Major Howard Bedinger. Shepherdstown is on the Potomac river, about fifteen miles above Harper's Ferry. James Rumsey was born in Maryland in 1743. He died in 1792. Though Washington was not present when the original demonstration of his boat was made, later another trial was made for Washington's benefit, and at the same time the steamboat was observed by Benjamin Franklin, who joined in the formation of a society to aid the project.

Locally, however, Rumsey was regarded as "queer" and indeed he was familiarly known as "Crazy" Rumsey. His old neighbors later joined, however, in trying to claim the invention for him, and the shore of the Potomac at Horseshoe bend, West Virginia side, now bears a monument to his memory, erected by some of the same people who counted him "queer."

Health in the City.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

War is a terrible thing in every way. Fortunately, the recent World war taught us many lessons. A great deal of medical knowledge and information was gathered during that awful period.

A very striking and unexpected bit of information acquired was that of the health status of boys who hailed from different parts of the country. Many surprises resulted from this study.

It has always been assumed that country lads were far healthier than their city cousins. The recruits from the country looked stronger and were broader of shoulder, greater in stature. While the city boys appeared pale and often anemic, the boys who had handled the plough and tilled the soil were big, clear-eyed and rosy-cheeked.

Now comes the surprise. Before going overseas, in the camps where there were epidemics of influenza and other contagious diseases, the boys from the country were usually the first to succumb.

Abroad, where hardships were numerous and physical fatigue excessive, the city boys, as a rule, held up and rarely had to lay down their rifles because of physical illness. The country boys contracted all the ailments to which they were exposed and too often the diseases proved fatal.

The explanation is simple. People who are constantly exposed to germs and diseases, particularly in childhood, acquire what is spoken of as "immunity." This immunity may protect them entirely from disease, or if the disease is contracted, they will have it in mild form and eventually recover.

It can be readily seen that in the boy hailing from the country, where he has had little germ-laden air, and little exposure to disease, immunity is not developed. If he be placed in surroundings laden with disease-producing germs, his chances of combating them are less favorable. This is exactly what happened in the war.

City boys in camps were exposed to diseases that they had been exposed to previously. Their immunity on the whole was greater than that of their country relatives. The mortality of city boys afflicted with influenza and pneumonia was slight as compared to that of the boys from the country.

Further study along these lines has contributed to marked advances in the study of immunology. "Immunology" is the study of that phase of medicine which deals with the reasons why we contract or combat diseases. Immunology plays a great role in the future of preventive medicine.

That at least has been one of the benefits of war. Let us pray we shall never need another war to help us along this line or any other.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. H. C. Q—What causes me to lack energy and to be depressed in spirits all the time? I am troubled with headaches and my hands are usually cold.

2—My little girl, who is eight years old, is cross-eyed. Can this be remedied?

A—You may be troubled with low blood pressure.

2—In every case of this kind a thorough examination must be made to determine the extent of the trouble and the degree of vision. In some instances proper fitting glasses will relieve the condition, but most times an operation is necessary. Consult a competent eye specialist and have him advise you concerning the child.

MRS. E. M. B. Q—What can be done for a brown spot about the size of a silver dollar? This spot is on the back and is very noticeable when an evening dress is worn?

The "Outline" Movement.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

An interesting controversy, full of high lights and deep shadows, has recently been provoked by the contemporary movement for aiding the average man and woman in the search for knowledge. The movement really began some three-quarters of a century ago, when Huxley crusaded so vigorously and eloquently in behalf of Darwin's theory of evolution. During very recent years, the movement has taken on new impetus, largely as the result of the enormous increase in the technology and terminology of knowledge.

The bounds of knowledge have increased almost unbelievably during the past century. The specialist has taken the field in cohorts; and the man in the street finds himself dizzy and confused in the effort to understand what it is all about. The specialist has been wittily defined as one who "knows more and more about less and less."

As the technical vocabulary of science, for example, becomes more and more unintelligible to the average man, a great gap begins to yawn between life and knowledge, between the everyday world and the world of scholarship.

Many teachers, especially professors in universities, realized the gravity of the situation. But little was done to remedy it. Knowledge was becoming once more, as it had been in the time of the middle ages, the recondite possession of a monkish caste. Scholars were becoming more and more divorced from life.

Thought was delegated more and more to this monkish caste, the scholarly Brahmins of the universities and the research laboratories. The public was rapidly degenerating into a vast class of ignorant lowbrows, who, so far as intensive thinking was concerned, were quite willing to "let George do it."

The enemy of knowledge was thus terminology. To read a treatise on mathematics, physics, biology, chemistry was like reading Greek or Sanscrit or Chinese. It was necessary to learn the language of science, the strange new vocabularies, the weird words which sometimes used more letters than are to be found in the alphabet.

A new type of educator, the liason officer between scholarship and ignorance, made his appearance. Slosson and Kaempffert reached their millions through the columns of the daily press and the popular magazines. Distinguished scientists, Eddington and Jeans, Soddy and Millikan, Russell and Shapley, wrote books of great brilliancy and lucidity, smoothing the rocky pathway of science and attempting to lead the public in the way it should go.

James Harvey Robinson, Will Durant, H. G. Wells, Sir Arthur Thomson, for example, who felt deeply the loss of contact between knowledge and the masses, sought to bridge over the gap. Outlines, popular accounts, stories and histories of various branches of knowledge, came into being and were strikingly successful.

These works have served a highly useful purpose. And there is no reason to believe that such books will be discontinued in the near future. It must never be forgotten that "there is no royal road to learning."

To permit other people to think for you is not the same thing as thinking for yourself. No one can do you own research for you, only you can do that. But outlines convey much information in brief compass. They spare the reader the necessity for immensely wide reading of a desultory sort. And they stimulate vitally the desire for the acquisition of knowledge.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Monday, February 13.

The delinquent taxpayers in the county were far fewer in number than they had been for many years.

Miss Cora E. Cahill and Mr. Harlett W. Murphy were married at Bradner by Rev. George McNutt.

Appropriations were made by council for $38,115 for current expenses of the various city departments and other expenses of the city for the half year to end June 30, 1911.

Hogs were bringing from $6.65 to $7.15 in Chicago; beeves from $5 to $6.80 and sheep from $2.75 to $4.45. The top price for wheat was 92½; for oats, 31⅞, and for corn, 50¼.

Dinner Stories.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 13—In northwest Washington, in a triangle enclosed by Massachusetts and Connecticut avenues and the deep, picturesque canyon of Rock creek, there is a hill.

It is known in city history as Kalorama hill, but it might be dubbed the "Hill of Presidents."

There is the fine old mansion to which Woodrow Wilson went when he left the White House. It is on S street, which cuts over the rise from Massachusetts to Connecticut.

In the same block is the home of Herbert Hoover. He lived there while he was secretary of commerce and when he was president-elect.

And over toward the canyon side is the home where Warren Harding lived as senator, and which he retained until after he entered the White House.

For the most part the homes that cluster on the hill are of moderate size and grounds. Probably the largest and most imposing is that of John Hays Hammond.

Ingalls learned to fly as a combat aviator in France during the World war. He uses trains and automobiles as little as possible. Practically all his service trips away from the capital are by air. And in his own ship he makes most of his journeys to and from his home state of Ohio.

JOHNSON WILL PLAY ORGAN PROGRAM HERE

Well-Known Musician To Appear at Annual Presbyterian Event.

Of interest to music lovers will be the second annual organ recital sponsored by the Community Organ Recital club Feb. 26 at the First Presbyterian church. The guest organist will be James Philip Johnson, organist and choirmaster of the Westminster church in Dayton.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the College of Music of Cincinnati, completing his course there in 1919 and receiving the Springer gold medal as "organist of distinction." He served as organist at St. Paul's Methodist and Mt. Auburn Presbyterian churches in Cincinnati while attending college and immediately after his graduation received a call to preside as organist of the East Liberty Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh. Here he continued his study under Dr. Charles Heinroth of Carnegie institute and did advanced organ work, theory and composition with T. Carl Whitmer, distinguished organist and composer. Dr. Heinroth will be remembered here as having presented a recital here when the First Presbyterian church was remodeled a few years ago.

Mr. Johnson received the degree of associate of the American Guild of Organists in 1922 and the Fellowship degree in 1924. During the Sesqui Centennial exposition in Philadelphia he was presented as a guest organist.

"Showboat" Star On Program of Chocolateers

BY GILSON WRIGHT

MEMORIES of "Showboat" are invoked by Norma Terris, prima donna of that production, who will sing three numbers from the Ziegfeld success as guest artist on the Chocolateers program with Nat Brusiloff and his orchestra Friday at 8 p. m. over the WJZ network.

Miss Terris is heard in "Why Do I Love You?", "Make Believe" and "Can't Help Loving That Man," all composed by the prolific Jerome Kern.

For nearly two years Norma Terris played the ingenue role of "Magnolia" in Ziegfeld's musical adaptation of Edna Ferber's novel. She had come to this role directly from two revues called "Paris by Night" and "A Night in Spain." She appeared with a group of performers many of whom were "made" by this show. The cast included Helen Morgan, Paul Robeson and Jules Bledsoe, who played the boss stevedore roles, Howard Marsh and Charles Winninger.

Fright Causes Death of Railroader in Wreck

WINNEMUCCA, Nev.—When the car in which he was riding was struck by a train, Otis Diess, railroad employe, died of shock.

He received no injuries, although his car was carried 1200 feet down the track. Physicians were of the opinion that fright caused the man's death. He was dead when the train crew reached him.

CONVICTS FAIL TO HOLD SWEETHEARTS

Pretty Girls True for Time, but Seldom Remain Faithful.

By International News Service.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif. —Not many sweethearts of men sent to prison remain faithful to the end.

They come regularly for a time, veteran prison guards here say.

"It's the old proverb, 'Men will go to prison for beautiful women.'"

Each day a score or more attractive young women stroll to the office of the captain of the guard. They mingle with tearful, saddened mothers and worried fathers.

"I have come to see number—. I am a friend," one of them will say to the guard.

Sixty minutes of happy chatting with her man. Then, goodbye, and not infrequently forever.

"How long do these pretty girls remain faithful?" was asked of a hardened penitentiary attache who watches the drama in reception rooms daily.

"Some never quit coming back until their man is freed," he replied. "But the real faithful women are few.

"For the first few months most of these pretty girls visit quite regularly. Then there is a lapse of a few months, and finally, they never return.

"The reason isn't hard to find. You know they meet some other guy on the outside."

SEEING AND HEARING

Although Fannie Hurst, world-celebrated novelist, claims that life has given her many thrills, she has no hesitation in saying that she experienced the greatest thrill of an eventful life when she sat in a television booth and saw and spoke to her husband, J. HOUSE AGREES ON VETS' BILL

Committee Reaches Satisfactory Compromise on Bonus Payment Plan.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The house ways and means committee today ordered a favorable report to the house on the $700,000,000 veterans compensation compromise plan. The vote was 17 to 4. The four committee members recorded against the Bacharach compromise were: Chairman Hawley, Representatives Treadway of Massachusetts, Chindblom of Illinois, and Ramseyer of Iowa, Republicans. Hawley said those opposing the compromise "want time for further investigation to see whether additional legislation is required to raise revenue to meet the payments."

* * *

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—A formal report recommending early passage of a compromise bill to swell the borrowing power of veterans on compensation certificates to $1,700,000,000 was ready for introduction today by the house ways and means committee.

Prompt approval for the measure put forward for depression-relief as well as to aid veterans, was anticipated. House leaders prepared to bring it up next Monday.

Chairman Hawley called the committee to give formal assent after a unanimous agreement yesterday settled a controversy of several weeks.

House Satisfied

General satisfaction was expressed in the house at the compromise. The committee composed differences between advocates of redemption in full at the expense of a $3,400,000,000 bond issue, and opponents of any additional veterans' aid.

Speaker Longworth shared with other Republican house leaders the view that the compromise would lessen prospect of an extra session.

"I do not think it will involve great difficulty to finance it," Longworth said. "It will not require a special bond issue."

Democrats likewise voiced satisfaction.

The treasury, however, still kept silence on the compromise. The ways and means committee adopted the plan along the line proposed by Representative Bacharach, Republican of New Jersey, after Under-Secretary Ogden Mills told it a $500,000,000 proposition would be difficult to handle, and after Chairman Hawley offered a last suggestion for smaller increases in the loans.

Loan Total Doubled

The plan approved would more than double loans allowed veterans on their certificates. On the average certificate of $1,000 it would permit the veteran to borrow up to $500, compared with a present maximum of $225.

Chairman Hawley estimated at least $700,000,000 would have to be raised by the treasury and that it would take six months to put the bill in operation. This calculation was based on 60 per cent of the veterans borrowing the limit.

The bill would provide 4½ per cent interest on new loans—a decrease from varying rates up to 6½ now required.

ADDS MORE TO BUTLER STORY

Marine Officer's Anecdote on Mussolini Mere "Squib," Vanderbilt Says.

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 13—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., today told his version of the Mussolini hit-run story for which Major General Smedley D. Butler was ordered to face court - martial, and asserted the anecdote would have "proved merely a squib compared to issues which testimony taking would have made public' had the court-martial not been called off.

VANDERBILT

Vanderbilt said General Butler "took a story of mine, twisted it around to score a point for himself and made me the goat."

"Testimony I would have given at Butler's court-martial," Vanderbilt said, "would have brought out statements made by the general at a gathering of members of the American Affiliated Lecture bureau last November. "These statements," he said, "concerned failure of a foreign power to live up to the terms of the naval pact entered into last year between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Names Third Speaker

Vanderbilt said the third speaker at the November meeting of the Lecture Bureau in New York, at which he and Butler spoke, was "an official of a foreign government."

Vanderbilt's story of the Mussolini incident was as follows:

"I was riding with Mussolini, who drove. A small child ran in front of the machine at a sharp turn in the road and was hit. I looked back to see if the child was hurt. Mussolini placed his hand on my knee and said 'never look back, Vanderbilt, always look ahead in life.'" of the National Broadcasting company and the new Vatican City station, HVJ, which Marconi donated to the Vatican.

Technical arrangements which included the use of the General Electric transmitter W2XAF, Schenectady, on 31.48 meters, were made by Charles W. Horn, general engineer of NBC. This station carried the voice of the interviewer, who was the writer, to Vatican City.

Mr. Marconi attended the details at HVJ, which was then using 50.3 meters and which was received via the RCA experimental short wave station at Riverhead, L. I.

Receiving Equipment

Two wire lines connected the laboratory in the NBC headquarters to the actual receiving and transmitting stations. There was a microphone in one corner of the laboratory, with a loudspeaker on the other side of the room reproducing the voice of Marconi.

It was a real thrill to converse over such a distance so easily—product of the great strides engineers have made.

Just like talking on an ordinary telephone, questions and answers passed back and forth as if the two were in the same room.

The interview was made in conjunction with the preliminary tests that preceded the inauguration of HVJ by Pope Pius XI.

$25,000 ASKED IN SUIT HERE

Husband Sues Railroad Co. for Damages After Death of Wife.

Injuries which allegedly caused the death of Mary Louise Richardson following a collision on West Center street on Jan. 4, 1929, are made the basis of a $25,000 damage suit of Orien Richardson, her husband, against the Hocking Valley Railroad Co., which was being heard before a jury in common pleas court today.

The woman died several months later from the alleged affects of the collision.

Attorney Fred Rector Jr., representing the defendant this morning brought out the fact that Mrs. Richardson had been injured in the tornado which struck Lorain in June, 1924, and that she had subsequently undergone an operation for removal of the appendix and gallstones. A similar abdominal operation following the collision here was made shortly before her death.

The collision occurred when Mrs. Richardson attempted to cross the Hocking Valley tracks after a northbound freight train had passed. Her Chevrolet sedan was struck by a southbound freight train.

The plaintiff alleges the crossing watchman signalled traffic to proceed and after the machine had started across the watchman frantically tried to halt the car.

W. N. Harder, local attorney, is assisting Rector in the defense while the law firm of Guthery, Strelitz and Guthery represents the plaintiff.

Asks New Trial

Although their client was given a jury verdict of $135 on Tuesday, attorneys yesterday filed a motion for a new trial in common pleas court in the damage suit brought by the Montgomery, Ward & Co., against Daniel L. Augenstein of Prospect. The attorneys, Clark & Arter, claim the verdict is insufficient. They had asked for $361.50.

Sues for Bill

Judgment of $527.69, the alleged amount of a grocery bill, is asked by Morris W. Kline in a suit filed yesterday in common pleas court against J. B. Cudd of Meeker. The plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Wilhelm & Robinson.

Files Three Suits

Carl R. Haas and others are defendants in three foreclosure suits filed in common pleas court yesterday by the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co.

Judgments of $1,118, $1,665.49, and $1,030 are asked.

Two other foreclosure suits against the same defendants were dismissed by the court yesterday at costs of the plaintiff.

CHARGE WOMAN WITH RECEIVING PROPERTY

Detectives Raid Drink Stand in Search of Stolen Cigarets.

Lillie Smith, colored, proprietress of a smokehouse and soft drink stand on Hocking street, is in county jail awaiting action of the grand jury on a charge of receiving stolen property.

She waived examination and pleaded not guilty when brought before Municipal Judge William R. Martin yesterday afternoon. Her bond was fixed at $3,000.

She was arrested by I. A. Greshel and W. L. Price, detectives with the C. & O. railroad, on a charge of receiving cigarets stolen from a box car in Fostoria last week.

Five other persons are in Fostoria jails waiting action of a grand jury there on charges of burglary, grand larceny and receiving stolen property.

Among the five in that city is Otis Simpson, alias George Davis, formerly of Marion and recently an escaped prisoner from Dayton workhouse on a sentence imposed for receiving loot taken during a local burglary.

Simpson is one of three colored men charged with burglary and grand larceny. Cigarets valued at nearly $100 were taken from a box car. Two other Fostoria residents are charged with receiving a part of the stolen goods.

Local Club Heads Hear Talks by 3 Marion Men

Harlow Explains Operation of City's Service Department; Ray A. Lehner and R. T. Lewis Appear at Luncheon of Civic Organization Leaders.

Talks by Service Director D. J. Harlow, Ray A. Lehner, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and R. T. Lewis, realtor, featured a meeting of the heads of Marion's civic organizations in the Marion club at noon today.

Following a luncheon Director Harlow explained the operation of the city's service department. The department employs 50 men, giving the city a wide variety of services, he said.

The half-million dollar sewage disposal plant is operated by a personnel of five. 16 men are in charge of the maintenance and repair of the city's 90.62 miles of street, he said. Eighteen persons are employed in the garbage collection department, which collects 118 tons of garbage and 132 tons of rubbish every week from more than 3,000 Marion houses and business places.

Six others are engaged in the maintenance of 99 miles of sanitary and storm water sewers. Sewers are flushed regularly when sufficient funds are available.

Street cleaning is in charge of six men in summer months, Director Harlow continued. An appropriation of $5,210 for this purpose this year will only permit cleaning of the streets during six months, he said.

Two men devote their time to the upkeep of 38 miles of sidewalk. Only $1,950 or little more than $10 a mile was appropriated for sidewalk purposes this year, and as a result only two miles of walk can be given attention in 1931, Director Harlow said.

An informal talk by Ray A. Lehner, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, included an explanation of the aims of that organization. He discussed "The Booster," official organ of the chamber recently published for the first time. Among movements now under way are those to eliminate grade crossings, and to have more attention given to keeping up ... own sidewalks clean.

The Junior Chamber will make a bid for the 1932 convention of the state organization when the next state meet is held in Toledo this spring, Lehner said.

R. T. Lewis, realtor, explained plans now under way to locate a 10-story office building here. Construction work on the building will be started this spring if half of the office space is leased as a civic project, he said.

BENEFIT PARTY NETS HOSPITAL HERE $85

Money Will Be Used To Buy Needed Equipment at Institution.

The first public affair ever given by City hospital, the benefit bridge party last night, was successful to the extent of clearing $85 for use in purchasing needed equipment.

Fifty tables were filled for bridge and euchre, arranged in the dining room, waiting room and front corridor of the hospital. Red hearts in profusion decorated the dining room and halls. White crepe paper and red hearts, in festoons, hung from corners of the room to the lights, and in the center of the room hung a cascade of hearts.

Miss Mary E. Pleasant, superintendent, in behalf for the staff, this morning extended her appreciation to the merchants and friends in Marion who had made possible the outstanding success of the party.

The money cleared last night will be used in purchasing instrument sterilizers for each floor, a part of the equipment in all large hospitals.

Last night following a season of cards, a valentine lunch was served by the refreshments committee. Those who won the awards for high scores, declined to accept them, returning them to the nurses on the grounds that it was a benefit affair, and that later, perhaps, another party might be given.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 13.—Decisions from the court of appeals on six of the ten cases heard here early this week were received by the clerk of court here today.

The higher court upheld the decision of the common pleas court in the case of the Sutton State bank of Attica against William E. Matthew and I. C. Guinther et al against Clement Wingert, et al.

In the suit of James Lantz against Annie E. Nelson, involving a dower right of Mrs. Nelson, the higher court ruled that the plaintiff had no valid vendor's lien and further that Mrs. Nelson had released her dower on one tract of property but retained her dower right on two others.

In two other cases, the cause was settled.
